SENATE FOOD RELIEF BILL MET REBUFF

House Committee For Disapproving Any Federal Dole

Washington, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The House Appropriations committee today voted to disapprove the Senate $25,000,000 Red Cross proposal for relief.

The vote was 18 to 11.

Representative Cramton, in charge of the bill, said the measure would be reported to the House, disagreeing with all of the Senate's amendments to the Interior Department supply bill.

The committee also rejected by the same vote the proposal by Representative Byrns, ranking minority member, that the fund be made available to a government agency to be designated by President Hoover.

Plans continued in the Senate, however, for some other relief agency to administer the fund that the Red Cross has refused.

Senate Plans Fight

Democratic Leader Robinson said he was considering proposals to ask the Salvation Army, the Public Health Service or some agency to administer it if the Red Cross stands by its refusal to accept the fund.

"I expect to announce something definite in a day or two," Robinson said.

The controversy has brought one of the smartest of the many issues between President Hoover and the Senate. House leaders who have upheld the President in past contests are still dubious of checking the $25,000,000 relief appropriation which was voted by the Senate over the objection of the President.

As the argument in Congress continued, Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross issued a statement emphatically denying the charge made in the Senate yesterday that his organization was "playing politics."

Payne asserted his organization was not in a position to administer the fund.

Payne said the welfare of the Red Cross required that "it continue its historic voluntary rule and refuse to be drawn into politics." Payne said the actual work had been done through local Red Cross chapters, adding that neighbors and friends of the sufferers in their home localities had extended the actual relief and determined the amount and character of the ration to be given.

Is General Bill

"The bill under discussion is a general relief bill and not a drought relief bill," he said.

It would require, he declared, that the money be expended anywhere within the United States. He said unemployment relief was being given by splendid relief agencies in the cities such as the Salvation Army, the great Catholic, Jewish and Protestant charitable organizations. Red Cross officials said today it was feeding 42-332 more people in the drought area than yesterday, raising the total to 701,609, adding that $4,207,941 had been raised of the $10,000,000 fund.

The House committee action was taken after a heated executive session.

The Byrns proposal would have provided that if the Red Cross declined to distribute the money appropriated, the President would have been empowered immediately to designate some governmental agency to make the distribution for the relief of humans.

Victor Anderson Called This Morn

Victor Anderson, uncle of Mrs. Wolfram and Charles Hanson, residing in Nuchusa township about five miles south of Dixon on state highway, route 2, passed away at their home this morning about 5 o'clock. For the past seven months he had made his home with them and had been critically ill with heart trouble for more than two months.

Mr. Anderson was born in Stora Adg, Sweden, January 1, 1858, and at his passing was aged 73 years and 28 days of age. Funeral services will be held from the home Saturday afternoon at 1:30 with interment in Oakwood.

Departure Of Big Flying Boat Sat.

Lisbon, Portugal, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Departure of the DO-X, giant German flying boat, on a trans-Atlantic flight to Brazil, was delayed today until Saturday to permit further tests of newly arranged motors and recent wing repairs.

The start of the trip originally planned for this morning but it was said that a trial flight yesterday aided to give complete satisfaction. The ship's route will be by way of Madeira, the Cape Verde Islands, the Canary Islands and Natal to Rio de Janeiro.

Parrot's Blood Transfusion Has Saved This Girl

NEA Chicago Bureau Eyes of the medical world are focused on Lillian Fisher, 15-year-old infantile paralysis victim of Joliet, Ill., whose life is believed to have been saved by injection of blood from a parrot through a mistake. A Joliet physician, seeking advice from a Chicago specialist by telephone was told to inject "parent's blood," but misunderstood the word as "parrot's" blood.

WINTER STORMS TAKING TOLL IN PARTS OF ALPS

Avalanches and Heavy Snows Reported: Tempests Rage

Paris, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Winter tempests lashed many parts of France today while dispatches from Franco-Italian Alps reported a growing toll of death from avalanches and storms. Heavy snows fell in southeastern France.

According to reports from Chambery, 21 Italian soldiers have been killed by avalanches in the Haute Maurienne section of the Alps during the last few days. Two officers and two non-commissioned officers were included among the victims.

Constant snow and the danger of further avalanches hindered rescue workers. Some of the men killed had been dispatched to search for missing comrades. Only five bodies had been recovered today.

Forty inches of snow impeded train service near the Italian frontier. Only passenger trains were running, and these were hours behind schedule. Telephone service was disrupted in the region.

Three men sent to relieve marooned telephone workers were caught in an avalanche, but were dug out by rescuers.

Unprecedented snow was reported throughout southeastern France.

Britain imports 16,700,000 bushels of apples yearly, mostly from the United States and Canada.

EPIDEMIC OF INFLUENZA IS GROWING IN CHAMPAIGN AND ITS NEIGHBORING COUNTIES

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—An epidemic of influenza was steadily gaining ground in Champaign, Ford, Douglas and Vermilion counties today, according to health authorities. Coupled with the lack of drinking water in the outlying districts, the situation threatens to become serious.

Urbana, alone, has more than 200 cases of influenza, the city health physician reported. Thirty-five cases have crippled activities at Champaign Field, Rantoul.

SLAYER OF SIX NORTH DAKOTANS LYNCHED TODAY

Taken From Jail Early This Morn: Hanged From A Bridge

BULLETIN.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Governor George F. Shafer today ordered a thorough investigation into the lynching of Charles Bannan and sent three state officials to the scene of the hanging near Schafer.

The hanging of Bannan by a mob, Gov. Shafer said, "is a shameful act which destroys the good reputation of the state for law and order. Lynch law in North Dakota should not be tolerated."

The Governor said a thorough investigation will be made in an effort to determine identity of the mob leaders and members.

Attorney General James Morris Adjutant General G. A. Fraser and Gunner Osjord, head of the State Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, left for Schafer today after the Governor had communicated to them the news of the lynching.

Schafer, N. D., Jan. 29.—(AP)—One day before Charles Bannan, 22, was to have been arraigned on charges of murdering a family of six, he was taken from the McKenzie county jail here early today by a crowd of 80 men and hanged from a bridge.

Bannan was arrested last November after he had sold hogs belonging to A. E. Haven, a farmer for whom he worked. He confessed to slaying Mr. and Mrs. Haven and their four children last February.

The men, all masked and some of them armed, battered down the jail door, secured the keys to Bannan's cell and departed with him in automobiles, first tying up Sheriff F. A. Thompson who was aroused by the noise.

Bannan's body was found some time later, hanging from a bridge two miles east of Schafer. It was cut down and brought here.

Before he died, Bannan pleaded with the mob in behalf of his father, James F. Bannan, also held for the crimes, who was not molested.

Father Unharmed

"He was told the elder Bannan 'would be given a chance' with the courts and would not be harmed by them."

Reaching the bridge, a one-inch rope was produced from a car, it was fastened to the railing and a sapkin placed around Bannan's neck. He was pushed off the rail and dropped about twenty feet.

The mob dispersed.

Young Bannan was brought to the McKenzie county jail here several days ago from the Williams county jail at Williston, N. D., where he had been held for safekeeping since his arrest.

Confession by Charles Bannan early in December that he had slain Mr. and Mrs. Haven and their four children climaxed one of the most sensational crimes in North Dakota's history.

Bannan had been employed on the Haven farm, near Schafer. Last February, according to his confession to authorities, after a quarrel, he shot and killed first one, and then another of the Havens, and buried their remains in a barn on the place.

Belated Suspicion

He told friends and neighbors that the Havens had left the farm and had gone to live in Oregon. No suspicion attached to him until late in November when he was arrested on a charge of selling property that did not belong to him—hogs from the Haven farm.

He was questioned repeatedly about the whereabouts of the Havens, and checking in Oregon failed to locate them. Finally he told authorities he had helped bury a baby which he said Mrs. Haven had killed during a fit of insanity.

He led the officers to where the body was buried. Further questioning and search eventually led to all the bodies and a confession that he alone was responsible.

Authorities continued a search for his father, who was arrested December 13, near Toledo, Oregon, at a tourist camp and returned to North Dakota. He has denied any connection with the killings.

On the average man's head there are 121,630 hairs.

ECHO OF CARD MURDER IN ARREST OF STICK-UP GANG; TO COMPARE PISTOL, BULLET

Aid Of Chicago Ballistics Experts Is Being Secured

A 45-calibre automatic pistol, a part of the arsenal seized Monday morning at the home of Clifford "Tom Mix" Ridout on Wallace street in Sterling, is to be forwarded to Col. Goddard, ballistics expert in Chicago, for comparison with a bullet which was taken from the body of Motorcycle Officer Robert Card of the Sterling police department, who was murdered as he attempted to overtake a speeding car in the eastern part of Sterling last fall.

It was reported today that Sergeant Oliver Kempster of the state highway police department for the northern Illinois district, was forwarding the pistol and bullet to the ballistics expert in an effort to clear up the murder of the former state highway officer, who at the time of his death was a member of the Sterling police department. Sergeant Kempster and every member of his force have investigated every angle which might be expected to shed some light on the mysterious murder since the fatal chase by Officer Card after a speeding roadster which was leaving the east limits of Sterling on the Lincoln Highway.

The officers have been satisfied since the night of the murder that the gun used was of a 45 automatic type, similar to one of those taken in the raid upon the Ridout home; rendezvous of the hold-up gang last Monday, state officers said.

Another Youth Arrested

Sergeant Kempster with the assistance of State Highway Officers Hal Roberts, Kenneth Church and Frank Tyne of this city, caused the arrest of another youth residing near the settlement east of Milledgeville and west of Lanark yesterday in the clearing up of a robbery of a Lanark garage last June, and were successful in recovering practically all of the property stolen there.

Clare Reynolds, aged 19, was arrested at his home between Milledgeville and Lanark and taken to the Carroll county jail at Mt. Carroll as leader in the theft and robbery. Mason Hacker, 20, who is at liberty from Lee county jail under a bond of $10,000 for his part in several local stick-ups, was said to have been implicated with Reynolds, as was Robert Ginkinger. All of the young men reside within a few miles of each other.

State Highway Officers Roberts and Tyne observed a car parked on a side road west of the Kite Creek bridge on the Lincoln Highway in Ogle county early one morning last June. Upon investigating, they found three young men engaged in changing tires. New tires were found in the rear of the car. The three young men told a story of how they came to have the new tires in their possession and the officers left on another mission, returning in a few minutes to find the car gone. The officers had been unable to locate the probable tire thieves until after the roundup of the bandit gang members in Sterling Monday morning.

Stole Lanark Car

Reynolds is said to have implicated Hacker and Ginkinger, members of the bandit gang, as having aided him in entering the Lanark garage on a Tuesday night the latter part of last June and shoving a new Ford sedan into the street of the village where they started the car and drove one mile north to a school house. They had also ransacked the garage and took many other articles it was stated. They stripped the new car of much of its equipment, proceeded a half mile further to an abandoned house where they divided the loot and went to their homes. The abandoned car was found the following day and returned to its owner.

Through the arrest of Reynolds and recovery of practically all of the loot taken from the Lanark garage, the four state highway officers were hopeful of being able to uncover other robberies of a like nature within the next few days, one of which it was reported might be traced to Dixon. It was also expected that several more arrests would result from the further investigations.

Reynolds is said to have told the state officers that he, Hacker, and Ginkinger had gone to Sterling one night about June 20, last, where they spent the evening in a "home-brew joint" drinking and that it was here that the plan for the garage robbery was laid. It will be recalled that the members of the service station bandit gang also told of outlining their campaigns from a Sterling "beer-joint" where they had obtained drinks for several months.

NEGRO KILLER CONVICTED

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Ulysses Brazier, Negro, today faced a sentence of forty years imprisonment as a result of his conviction yesterday on a charge of murdering LeRoy Woodson, a Negro. A jury, composed of eight men and four women reached its verdict after deliberating less than five hours.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

JUNIOR BOYS BAND

A meeting of all boys interested in the newly organized Junior Boys Band will be held at the M. E. church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, and it is important that every boy who contemplates playing with the band be present at that time as an important announcement will be made.

GOT RUNAWAY BOY

An officer from the Michigan Home and Training School at LaPeere, Mich. was to arrive in Dixon today and return with 15-year-old Virgin Kaiser, who escaped from that institution several days ago. State Highway Officer Kenneth Church observed the boy hitch-hiking along the highway and took him in custody for questioning, when he learned that he was a runaway, and notified the school authorities.

GIVEN HEAVY FINE

Orlando Yannonne of Springfield, was assessed a fine of $500 and costs by Judge Leech in the county court yesterday afternoon on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor. Yannonne was arrested several weeks ago on state highway route 70 with a load of liquor said to have been consigned to Rockford agents. The car which was seized at the time was also returned to the driver. Preceptor attorneys appeared in Yannonne's behalf.

POEMS COMING IN

The approach of the close of the $100 prize poem contest for pupils of the Dixon schools is seeing more numerous entries coming to "Poetry Editor, The Telegraph" than at any time during the contest. The poems will be turned over to the judges on Monday morning, the contest closing Saturday evening, and they will pick the poem which will win the $100 check offered by a former Dixonite.

HELP WELFARE WORK

William Hogan has presented the Dixon Welfare headquarters with a large box of laundry soap, and the Nurses Alumni has presented the association with five tons of coal, the second supply of coal donated by them. A friend in Palmyra township has given $5 toward relief work, while a second Palmyran has donated acceptable eggs and potatoes.

LAUNDRY SAFE ROBBED

The safe at the City Laundry 319 First street, was opened during the night and thoroughly ransacked the checks and papers being scattered about and the cash, amounting to about $35 removed. One leather sack containing $10 in small change was taken.

Entrance apparently was gained by opening the front door. The door was unlocked when the laundry was opened this morning. C. C. Gibson, owner of the laundry had closed the safe before leaving his place of business last evening.

TOLL OF INDIANA MINE EXPLOSION IS PLACED AT 29

Seven Men Rescued Alive From Wrecked Mine At Dawn Today

BY PAUL H. KARNES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Linton, Ind., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Seven miners who had been given up as dead were found alive at dawn today in the Little Betty mine shaft, leaving 29 known dead from a blast which late yesterday wrecked the shaft.

The death toll was fixed in an official report from the mine after the body of Fred Reed, the last to be recovered, was removed. All who were in the shaft when the explosion occurred were killed save nine, of whom two walked out last night.

The other seven, caught deep in the earth, bratticed a small side-chamber, knowing their oxygen supply would last only a few hours. The air was becoming fouled when rescue squads cleared the entry this morning.

Caused by Gas

State and Federal officials announced today after a brief survey of the situation that the explosion which wrecked the mine and trapped the miners a mile back in the tunnel had been caused by gas.

They said a fall of slate had revealed the porous limonite formation from which the gas exuded.

Survivors described the explosion as a "burning cyclone," and said the charred condition of the bodies bore out their description.

It was impossible to make a positive identification of the 18 bodies that had been recovered, as they were burned almost beyond recognition.

"A flaming cyclone" was the description of the disaster given by Andrew Docherty, Paxton, Ind., leader of the first team to descend a mile below the surface for rescue work.

Docherty, hero of many mine rescues during his 37 years' experience in America and Scotland, told of the eagerness of fellow miners to risk their lives in the poisonous fumes of the mine.

Described Rescue

Equipped with safety lamps which detect gas, the first crew felt its way cautiously through nearly a mile of mud and slime.

"Aside from a flickering of the lamps, due to carbon monoxide gas, there was nothing to show that anything had happened until we neared the seat of the explosion," he said.

"There we could see bodies all around on the mine floor."

"As we approached, our lights flickered violently and we retreated to the surface and made plans for restoring the ventilation system."

"We were sure they were dead, so we stacked them in piles and proceeded deeper."

"It was necessary several times to get in touch with some of the younger members of the crew, who tried to forge ahead. They were anxious to reach their buddies and did not seem to care about the danger of deadly after-damp."

"When we had stayed in the mine two hours, our heads throbbed and it was hard to breathe. We had no masks, so we retired and another crew came on."

"When I came out, Mrs. Letote hurried over, clutched my arm, and asked if I had seen her two sons. They were both down there, stretched in the mud, but I couldn't tell her. I brought out two other sons of hers a few years ago, after an explosion in Sullivan, Ind. Her husband got out alive this time."

"But all the danger doesn't bother us," Docherty added reflectively. "We'll be back at work tomorrow so we can help the families those poor poor fellows left behind."

Gambled With Fate

The seven men who came out alive today after spending several hours in the chambers where 28 comrades perished, owed their lives to a successful gamble with fate.

The seven were fortified in a small side chamber, where they bratticed themselves from the deadly black-damp, with enough air for only a few hours' existence. They

Fiery Marine Officer Faces A Courtmartial

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER

Characterization of Premier Mussolini as a "hit and run" driver in a recent speech at Philadelphia, which brought a formal protest from the Italian dictator, today resulted in the Navy Department ordering him before a court martial.

State Police To Rescue Of Driver

Ashley, Ill., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Len Cobb, 20, West Frankfort taxicab driver, kidnaped by two men in his own automobile yesterday afternoon was rescued by the State Highway Police at the intersection of state routes fifteen and two, west of here about 8:30 o'clock last night.

The men believed to be St. Louis gangsters escaped by jumping from the automobile, when it was ordered stopped by police, and running across an open field. Several shots fired at the fleeing men failed to stop them.

The youth, who was found in the back seat of the automobile with his hands tied, told authorities one of the men approached him in West Frankfort and asked to be driven to the home of his mother some distance in the country.

Shortly after leaving the city Cobb said the man pressed a revolver to his head and ordered him to turn towards Benton near where a second man was picked up. Refusing their commands to drive them to St. Louis Cobb said the men tied his hands and threw him in the back seat after taking two dollars from him.

Cobb described one the men as about 25 years old with his front teeth out while the other he said was about 19. Police were unable to ascertain a motive in the crime.

Robber Of Camden Bank Identified

Rushville, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Clyde Roberts, who escaped from the local jail last November and was later returned, today faced charges of robbing the Camden State Bank, following his identification yesterday by Roy Daly, cashier of the bank.

Daly declared that Roberts was one of the three men who robbed the bank of approximately $2,500 on the morning of December 29.

County officers are seeking Gale McDaniels, who escaped from the Rushville jail with Roberts, and a man by the name of Lee Sanders. They are believed to have been Roberts' companions in the robbery.

Roberts will be held for the April term of the Schuyler county Circuit Court. In order to avoid another jail break authorities plan to keep Roberts in solitary confinement.

Mrs. W. D. MacLeod Called This Noon

Mrs. William D. MacLeod, 115 East Everett street, who has been critically ill for several weeks, passed away shortly before one o'clock this afternoon at the Dixon Public hospital where she had been receiving treatment. The remains were removed to the Preston mortuary. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. The news of the death of the charming young woman will bring sorrow to her many friends.

GENERAL MUST FACE TRIAL BY COURT-MARTIAL

Admits Making Speech Derogatory To II Duce Recently

Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Secretary of State Stimson today made formal apology to Italy for statements made by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler regarding Premier Mussolini of Italy, in a speech at Philadelphia last week. The apology was made two hours after Secretary of the Navy Adams had ordered Butler, one of the most distinguished American Marine Corps officers, court-martialed.

Stimson personally made the formal expression of regret over the affair to Italian Ambassador Giacomo do Martino who called at the state department to receive the apology.

Stimson explained to De Martino that Butler's speech was an "unauthorized action" and informed the Ambassador of the Navy's action in ordering the General court-martialed.

Admits Speech

Butler, in answer to a demand from the Secretary of the Navy, yesterday had admitted that he had told an audience at Philadelphia that an American friend had informed him that Mussolini had commented that a single life was nothing compared to the life of the state, when Mussolini's automobile allegedly had run down a child.

Butler also was said to have spoken of "mad dogs" threatening Europe and to have commented that Mussolini was among those awaiting an opportunity to start another war.

Butler's explanation to the Navy Department was received late yesterday. Early today a conference was held among high officers of the department and the court-martial decided upon. Orders were dispatched to Butler at Quantico, Va., Marine base, to place himself under arrest. He did so within 15 minutes, turning over command of his post to Brig. Gen. Randolph C. Berkeley. While under arrest he is confined to the limits of the Quantico reservation and is not permitted to discuss the case with anyone.

Records Buried

Arrangements for convening the court were begun immediately in Washington, but it may be several days before the court can be appointed, owing to the fact that the records of procedure in such important cases are buried deep in the Army and Navy files. The Army has not court-martialed a Major General since 1913 while the trial of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell for his criticism of superiors and of the air service in January, 1928 following the destruction of the dirigible Shenandoah, is the last time an officer of general rank in either the Army or Navy has been court-martialed. The Navy was unable immediately to find in its record an account of the last trial of an officer of Butler's rank.

Secretary of State Stimson received Ambassador de Martino about an hour after the order for the court-martial was issued. They were closeted together for a considerable time. When De Martino left Stimson issued the following statement:

"Having learned from the Navy Department that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C. has admitted that the quotations of his remarks in the press were substantially correct, I have this morning handed a note to the Italian Ambassador expressing to Signor Mussolini and the Italian people the deep regret of this government at this unauthorized action on the part of an officer on active duty."

Text Of Apology

Stimson also gave out the text of the written apology which he handed to the Ambassador. It was as follows:

"Excelsency: I have the honor to express the deep regret which this government feels at the reflections against the Prime Minister of Italy in the unauthorized speech of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, United States Marine Corps, at Philadelphia, on Jan. 19.

"The sincere regrets of this government are extended to Mr. Mussolini and to the Italian people for this discourteous and unwarranted utterance by a commissioned officer of this government on active duty."

"Accept, Excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration"

(Signed) Henry L. Stimson."

In a quarter of an hour after the announcement that Butler had been ordered court-martialed, Butler apparently had executed the order to place himself under arrest. He was in seclusion, would talk with no one, and orders were given at his office at Quantico that no one should discuss the matter or anything remotely pertaining to it with any civilian or other officer.

At the Navy Department there was

IT'S THE OLD STORY AGAIN IN CHICAGO: NO MORE PAYROLLS CAN BE MET AFTER FEBRUARY 10

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(AP)—City Comptroller Charles S. Peterson has served notice to all city employees that no more payrolls can be met "until February 10 or thereabouts," due to law cash receives.

Peterson said there was less than $400,000 cash in the city till, that the $1,000,000 payrolls of the fire and police departments could not be met Monday, and that the city will have to depend on the unlikely sale of 1931 tax anticipation warrants if the payrolls after February 15 to 16 to be met.

The city council decided yesterday to meet February 9 and act on the release of $3,341.00 from the working cash fund in order to pay employees for the first two weeks of the month.

The school board yesterday authorized the sale of $12,500,000 in bonds from their working cash fund for salaries due between February 5 and April 1.

Assistant Deputy Comptroller Michael J. O'Connor said the county was also feeling a pinch for money, and will be able to meet its $1,000,000 monthly payroll only if the County Treasurer will juggle his special funds in order to loan the money.

TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

HEAD OF STOCK
EXCHANGE TOLD
OF "BEAR HUNT"Says Market Decline
Of 1930 Was Due To Economics

Boston, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, disclosed today investigations of alleged bear raiding had resulted in the exoneration of the bears and indictment of economists.

He addressed the Boston Chamber of Commerce and publicly discussed for the first time what Wall Street called the "bear hunt" during the decline of markets of 1930.

He said the exchange failed to discover any facts to support allegations of bear raids, or concerted action to depress prices. He defended the short sale as an essential in open market machinery and urged the public to consider real values rather than rely on tips, rumors and hopes.

When the market broke, he said the public was unable to appreciate that real liquidation, particularly on bank loans, was taking place.

"The investigations have shown," he said, "that a number of events which had all the appearance of bear raids were, in effect, the liquidation of long securities. For example, last fall the action of certain railroad stocks seemed to indicate that they were the object of bear attacks. Large blocks began to appear for sale and the pressure was continuous."

"When these sales were traced to their source it was found a large institution had determined to liquidate certain railroad stocks which it held as trustee. In order that all its trusts might be treated alike the stock was pooled and offered the stocks were pooled and offered for sale in blocks. Although this may have had an unfortunate effect on the market there is no doubt it was done in this manner only to preserve equality among the number of trusts for which the institution was acting."

The bull market of 1929 and the decline of 1930, Mr. Whitney asserted, were due largely to the unreasonable optimism of security owners in the prosperity period and to their jumpy attitude when depression came. He called for the dissemination of "real information to our investors so their judgment can be based on facts."

"The primary lessons of the last two years are that the United States is and will continue to be a great industrial country," he said.

ANNUAL STATE
FARMERS' MEET
AT SPRINGFIELDRevision Of Taxation
System Of Illinois
Called Big Need

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—(UP)—Declaring that a revision of the state's taxing system was necessary if the brunt of the tax burden, which is now being borne by the farmer and real estate owner, is to be lessened, Earl Smith Pittsfield, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association delivered his annual address at the association's meeting here today.

Smith said that billions of dollars in intangibles was escaping taxation because the laws did not provide for means of taxing such property. As a result, he said, the farmer and real estate owner must bear the greatest portion of the tax.

Reports of other executive officers of the association and the appointment of convention committees occupied the major portion of today's program.

George E. Metzger, secretary of the association, in his annual report, stated that the year 1930 was the greatest in the association's history from the stand point of accomplishments. "On the other hand," he said, "I doubt if there has ever been a year when we have faced more determined and organized opposition and more underhand tactics against our programs than during the year just passed."

He outlined various undertakings of the association during the past year, including a campaign of cooperative marketing and transportation.

The 1931 program, he said, should provide for strengthening the local cooperative units, both from the standpoint of membership and finance.

Approximately 5,000 delegates from all sections of the state are attending the association's convention. The feature of the convention program will be an address tonight by Alexander Legge, Chairman of the Federal Farm Board, at the association banquet to be held in the State Arsenal.

Chicagoan Fights
His Wife's Acting

Paris, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Nelson Morris, Chicago millionaire who for a long time has been trying to keep his actress wife, Jane Aubert, off the stage, filed a suit in Paris courts today against the Franco Film Company for $18,000 damages.

Modis alleges that his wife did a song and dance act for the film company since the courts decision denied her the right to appear on the stage without his permission. He says also that in the act his wife was dressed in a costume "offensive to conjugal decency." The case will be heard in the civil tribunal Feb. 6.

GENERAL MUST

A similar silence. Queries of even minor nature regarding the case had to be referred to Secretary Adams for answer.

For Recent Speech

Butler's trouble started last week when Premier Mussolini of Italy became incensed at reports that Butler had made derogatory statements regarding him in a speech before the Contemporary Club at Philadelphia.

Butler was quoted as having said that a friend of his motored through Italy with Mussolini. The Premier's car, according to the story, struck a child. Mussolini is alleged to have on, according to the quotations from Butler's account, saying that the life of the individual was a small matter compared to the life of the state.

The General also was quoted as having spoken of "mad dogs" run-ning at large in Europe and of Mus-solini as awaiting to start another war.

The Italian embassy was cabled a denial by Mussolini and on Saturday it protested to the State Department. The State Department called upon the Navy for an explanation and Butler was requested to make a statement. He delivered this statement to Secretary of the Navy Adams yesterday.

It was understood by friends that he did so, not as a direct criticism of Mussolini but to illustrate the attitude of those who placed the state above the individual.

Distinguished Record

The other references it was understood he explained, were made in discussing what he considered the need of the United States to remain prepared for war as a means of assuring peace.

Butler's record is one of the most distinguished in the Army or Naval service. Not yet 50 years old, he is one of the youngest officers ever to attain the rank of Major General.

He has been an officer of the Marine Corps since the Spanish-American war, having run away from home to join the Marines when not yet 20 years of age. He has been decorated six times and is one of the few officers ever to hold both the Army and Navy medals of honor.

He has been promoted once for gallantry in action and has seen service in almost every part of the world. His most recent foreign command was in China where he led the Marines sent there two years ago at the time of the

PRAISED IN BOOK

Washington, Jan. 29.—(AP)—All of Major General Butler's efforts have been devoted to making speeches.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement of court-martial there appeared today an official recognition by the Navy of his services as an arbiter of international difficulties.

It was in "The United States Navy in Peace Time," a book prepared by the Office of Naval Intelligence and published today.

"Probably no finer example of successful arbitration by American officers has been demonstrated in recent years than the peace-making achievements that crowned General Butler's efforts in China in 1927 and 1928," the article narrated. "This Marine officer won the confidence and esteem of the Chinese people, both official and private."

Rum Vessel Very Near Legal Limit

New York, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Previous testimony that the Nova Scotia schooner Josephine K., whose skipper was fatally wounded by a Coast Guard shell was 11.7 miles from shore was corroborated by another Coast Guard official at the inquiry on Staten Island today.

F. A. Bierkert, Executive Officer of the Coast Guard cutter Sebago, which went out to the Josephine K. after the capture by the CG-145, said he used a gyrocompass to fix schooner's position, which he declared was 11.7 miles off the New Jersey coast.

Bierkert also testified that Boat-swain Karl Schmidt of the CG-145, who admitted he fired the shells that wounded Capt. William Chett of the Josephine K., was sober at the time of the capture. Wesley Anderson, First Mate of the schooner, contends Schmidt was intoxicated and threatened to shoot one member of the rum runner's crew.

AGITATION FOR SOLDIERS' BONUS
AGAIN ATTACKEDIs Blamed For Decline In Price of Government
Bonds On Market

Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Agitation for a cash bonus was blamed for a drop in the government bond market in the last few days by Under Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

He appeared today with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Veterans Bureau Director Frank T. Hines before the House Ways and Means committee to oppose bonus proposals.

Representative Rainey, Dem., Illinois, pointed out that the bonds had dropped following Mellon's opposition to the bonus yesterday before the Senate Finance committee, and asked Mills directly.

"Don't you think that was a manipulated market?" Mills replied. "We've had a very weak market all the week. That's what you've got to expect when the holders of bonds hear that the government may flood the market with $3,500,000,000 of bonds to pay off the soldier bonus. Naturally they are going to sell these bonds."

Mills reiterated to the House committee, which opened today, the opposition expressed yesterday by Mellon and read all the letters the Secretary had written in the last few weeks criticizing the proposal.

Mellon Criticized
Pointed criticism of Secretary Mellon was voiced by Rep. Patman, Dem., Texas, in appealing to the Senate Finance committee for favorable action on the bills.

Thomas Kirby, legislative chairman of the Disabled American Veterans, said Mellon had opposed all previous veterans' legislation substantially in the same manner in which he now opposes the cash payment. Kirby said his organization favored the Brookhart-Patman bill, which would pay now the sum that would be due in 1948, without deducting the $60 bonus received by all veterans after the war.

John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, read into the record a resolution of the Legion Executive committee advocating further relief for disabled veterans and immediate cash payment of insurance certificates.

Taylor said the Legion committee had expressed no preference for any particular bill.

Rep. Connery, Dem., Mass., said that "regardless of what the executive committee did, the rank and file of the Legion wants payment now in full, without any half measures."

He termed the executive committee's action a straddle.

A Wicksstrahl suggested Senator Watson, Repn. Ind.

The committee voted to proceed as soon as possible with consideration of hospitalization legislation.

By NATHAN ROBERTSON
Washington, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Despite Secretary Mellon's opposition to cashing veterans bonus certificates advocates of the plan were openly claiming today the Senate Finance committee would approve some such proposal.

Their claims were strengthened by the announcement of Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, one of the two members of the committee who hold the "balance of power" that he favors paying the veterans the full face value of their certificates.

Meanwhile the House Ways and Means committee, in which the legislation must originate, was ready to begin hearings today on a number of cash payment bills, costing from $885,000,000 to $3,400,000,000.

Friends of the legislation were confident the committee would approve one of the measures. Officials of the government departments were called for testimony today.

Look For Veto
Mellon's statement before the Senate committee yesterday strengthened the belief of many congressional leaders that President Hoover will veto any bill calling for cash payment of the face value of the certificates. They believe, too, he would be likely to disapprove one of the less expensive measures calling for cashing the certificates at their current value.

Couzens' announcement was important in view of his position as one of the

Miss Gallup Soloist with Chicago Orchestra

The Geneva Republican of Friday, Jan. 23rd, printed the following article of interest here as Miss Gallup is a Lee county girl and former resident of Dixon, where the family is well and favorably known, having resided here a number of years before locating in Geneva.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gallup, are former students of the old Dixon College. Following is the article:

On Friday, Jan. 30th at 8:15 at the first concert of the series to be given by the Chicago Civic Orchestra, Eric de Lamar conducting at the Geneva Lutheran Church, Arline Gallup of Geneva will appear as soloist with the orchestra.

This talented young woman began her musical study as a little girl with Elsie Forrest Earley in Geneva and soon showed that rare combination of performance and musical aptitude which alone can gain for its possessor a significant position among the ranks of gifted musicians.

After several years of hard study with Mrs. Earley, and a short period with Mrs. Maurice Brown of this city, she entered the Cosmopolitan School of Music in Chicago, from which she will receive her bachelor of music degree this spring. While there she has studied piano with Daisy Waller Stevens, who, it will be remembered, appeared with Miss Gallup at a concert given last year at the Methodist church in Geneva. At that time a critic said of her: "Miss Gallup displayed her talent as an artist in the clear-cut quality of her tone, in the ease with which she handled technical difficulties, and in the warmth of feeling in her interpretation."

Pankhurst-Dunbar Wedding on Monday

Miss Amy Pankhurst and Walter Dunbar both of Amboy, were married at Peoria, Ill., Monday, Jan. 26 at 12 o'clock. Miss Pankhurst is the daughter of George Pankhurst of Amboy and Mr. Dunbar is the son of Mrs. Fred Griswold of Amboy.

The young couple were accompanied to Peoria by the bridegroom's mother, brother and two sisters, and upon Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar's return they will reside on a farm at Temperance Hill.

The bride is a charming young woman and is a graduate of the class of 1930. The bridegroom is a splendid young man.

O. E. S. Card Party Successful and Most Enjoyable Last Eve

The card party given by Dorothy Chapter, order of Eastern Star last evening at Masonic Temple was a great success. About two hundred sixty people attended and there were fifty-seven tables of bridge. The prizes were well selected, those for the ladies consisting of the new patterns of pewter silverware and for the men, appropriate articles, all of them very useful and valuable trophies.

The first ladies' prize, a pewter creamer and sugar was won by Mrs. David Marks; the second ladies prize, a beautiful pewter salt and pepper set was won by Mrs. Allen H. Lancaster; and the ladies' consolation prize, a pewter bowl was won by Mrs. J. C. Ramsey. The gentlemen's first prize, a pair of very fine kid gloves was won by E. Rosenkrans; the second gentlemen's prize, a double deck of cards was won by William L. Frye; and the consolation prize for gentlemen, a Hicox belt and silver buckle was won by Dr. Kenyon B. Segner.

A number of guests from the surrounding cities attended this party. These visitors are regular attendants at nearly all social affairs held at the Dixon Temple. Like the Dixon people who attend, they find a great deal of pleasure in making new friends. The party lasted until eleven p. m. and because of its success, it is very likely that another card party will be given before the winter is over.

Following the card party the officers held a brief meeting to complete plans for their next affair which will be their first initiatory ceremony and will be conferred upon a full class of candidates. This will be held on February 6th. Preceding the ceremony there will be a memorial service for Gertrude C. Petty, who has been the efficient secretary of Dorothy Chapter for a number of years and whose loss is felt so keenly by a host of friends. It is a source of considerable gratification to all members when they realize that the friendships made in such an organization are extended in this manner when their career is ended.

Discusses "Education of Parenthood" Today

Athens, Ga., Jan. 29.—(AP)—There are 2,124 ways in which children annoy parents.

Dr. Mandel Sherman, director of the child research center, Washington, D. C., made that statement here today before the 2nd annual Farmers Week and Marketing conference at the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

Dr. Sherman said a survey was made by 32 parents, who were asked to keep account of the ways in which their child annoyed them. They carried small notebooks around with them and kept a record each day of the week.

The greatest number of annoyances, Dr. Sherman said, was caused by disobedience, but all sorts of conditions were put down as annoying. Some parents were annoyed because their children were too slow, others because they were too quick or alert. A few parents were annoyed because the children were not neat, while others were disturbed by their primping.

"The results," Dr. Sherman said, "showed that the attitudes of the parents, their emotions at a given time and their feelings of well-being affected greatly the kind and number of annoyances with their children."

Discussing "education of parenthood," he said the problem of personal welfare and of happiness can be solved by properly preparing the youth for life—and education for parenthood can do much in this respect.

Dinner for Miss Conrad Happy Affair

Last evening Mrs. E. M. Goodsell entertained with a nicely appointed dinner for Miss Helen Conrad, one of her pupils who is leaving the latter part of this week for Chicago where she will enter the Sherwood Music Conservatory for an advanced course in music. Last evening Mrs. Goodsell's class in Harmony of which Miss Conrad has been a member, were the guests. After the dinner a pleasant social evening followed with a guessing contest as one of the diversions, Miss Lenora Swab and Dean Ball being winners. The friends present made Miss Conrad a nice gift with their best wishes for success and happiness in the city. Then Mrs. Goodsell was happy.

YOUR CHILDREN

We all go stale. Children go stale. Whole families go stale.

These dark winter days with the holidays over and the short dark days filled with the same old routine of the carburetor of existence gets clogged. It needs clearing. The old car needs more gas or a change of oil to keep it running till spring.

When there is snow for sledding or ice for skating, or enough of the feathery crystals for a snow-mantled children will get enough punch out of life without any assistance.

But it is too much to expect of our continental climate to ask it to furnish us with amusement from November until April. As it is, idea winter weather suitable for play outdoors is rare, particularly in the cities. We seem to jump from bitter heartless days when small noses run the risk of being frozen if they poke themselves into the open, to rainy muggy, sticky periods when retreat is the better part of valor.

What can be done to break the monotony? How can we beat Old Man Time at his own game, or rather help the children to beat him? They are too little to go to school or on those disheartening Saturdays at home?

Once in a while it will pay the busiest mother to take a day off and lay out a plan of home games. Once started the children will probably have enough ingenuity to carry on. One suggestion leads to another and it is surprising how well they can amuse themselves if only the proper hint is dropped at the proper time.

All Kinds of Play

Mrs. Goodsell greatly appreciated the gift from her class.

Mrs. A. L. Kaylar Had Very Happy Surprise

Members of Dixon Lodge, No. 39, I. O. O. F., planned a happy surprise for Mrs. A. L. Kaylar. After lodge Tuesday evening members of the Odd Fellows and their wives went from the hall to her home where she welcomed them. L. F. Redfern, on behalf of the members with a few appropriate remarks, presented her with a silver fruit service as an appreciation for her service and willingness to assist the lodge and order at all times.

Mrs. Kaylar thanked those present for the remembrance and said that she was always willing to assist the order and felt that she had only done her duty as a member of the I. O. O. F. fraternity.

The remainder of the evening was

For instance, "dressing up" is the greatest game in the world. It is too bad that the attic has passed. There are still a few of those dusty heavens left, but not so many. If it no longer tops your house, turn a room over to the children for the day.

Every house should have its old trunk, or barrel, or rag-bag of clothes, grown-up clothes, for the children to dress up. If your house lacks such a thing get all the gew-gaws, odds and ends, scarfs and trunks you can from friends and relatives.

A short easy story or play will give the background, or reason. Let them get at some easy story they know. A little gift paper and cardboard will make crowns and wings, for they will be anything from birds to kings.

Well—that is that. Home-made ensembles or drawing boards will fill many an hour. White shelf paper to draw or paint on is inexpensive, or a roll of white paper to be cut in desired sizes. Water-color paints, crayons or charcoal are also inexpensive, and watch the children use them if they are supplied.

Other possibilities are beanbags made by cutting six-inch pieces of duck and putting in a cupful of small beans. They can be thrown at a mark, five points a hit and fifty the game, or the one who is "it" tries to hit another player who becomes "it." But this needs space.

A resourceful mother can make up her own suggestions. All the children ask for a pick-up from boredom is something new. This is natural. They must be busy, and busy with their interest engaged.

KITCHEN LORE

by JANE ROGERS

ALL foods can be listed under one of three main headings, and the health of your family depends upon a proper balance between the foods in these groups. Meats, eggs and dairy products are builders and repairers of body tissues. Cereals, sugars and fats are the chief fuel foods, the source of heat and energy. Regulating foods—chiefly fruits, the outer coverings of grains, and green vegetables—keep the body in good running order.

The last is the group most likely to be neglected. Make sure that your menu provides fresh fruit, and two or more green vegetables every day. Serve dishes prepared with such cereals as bran and whole wheat, which retain the mineral salts and fiber of the grain. Watch for new recipes and you'll be surprised at the appetizing variety of such dishes you'll be able to prepare.

Excessive Speed Held Wreck Cause

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Excessive speed was held in an Interstate Commerce Commission safety report today to have been the cause of a passenger train wreck January 1 on the Wabash railroad at Bement, Ill., in which one person was killed and five injured. The dead man was the engineer responsible for the train's movement.

"This accident was caused by excessive speed on a sharp curve," the Commission investigators reported. "The distance the engine traveled and the manner in which the other equipment came to rest clearly indicates that the speed was far in excess of that with which the train could round the curve in safety."

SKULLS BY THE ROADSIDE.

No landscape artist ever did a picture of the great plains of the old west without putting somewhere in the foreground the bleaching skull of some long-dead steer or horse. Those white bones were typical. The early trails were marked by them as by guide-posts. The advance of man into the arid plains was marked by the skeletons of domestic animals that fell dead by the wayside.

The old days are very far off, now; still, it is a trifle jarring to read in the current Harper's Bazaar that the rusted and battered skeletons of abandoned flivvers have replaced the white bones of dead animals beside the western trails. Yet that is just what a writer for this magazine asserts.

Old skulls are few and far between now, he says. But broken fenders, worn-out tires and decrepit auto bodies are there in their stead. Now as always, the American leaves a litter when he travels; but it is a different kind of litter now, and the junked flivver rather than the steer's head is the emblem of the roads of the far west.

Sharp contrasts are what give life its color, and this contrast is sharp enough for anyone. For those old western trails were not marked by bleaching bones for nothing; and the horses and cattle were not the only ones who left their skeletons by the roadside. The far west was won only through infinite daring and infinite suffering.

The Santa Fe trail, the Oregon trail, the Overland route to California, past Great Salt Lake and over the empty plains of Nevada, were dreadful roads in the old days. The old chroniclers, without exaggerating, said that there was a human corpse for every mile; and the people who went to the west over those routes had to have an endurance and a courage which we today can hardly even imagine.

So the old trails were marked with bones; and the landscape painters saw them, and a bleaching skull on an empty plain, beside a shallow wheel trace, was the sign of the open places—a sign that the overpowering beauty of the American west had covered heart-break and hunger and tragedy.

And now? The western roads are as safe and as pleasant to travel as those of the east. The motorist goes from Kansas City to Albuquerque, from Omaha to San Francisco, without paying even a moderate discomfort for the joys of his trip. Where people died of starvation and thirst or went under the scalping knives of the Indians less than a lifetime ago he rolls along in easy freedom, worried only by the possibility that the rest camp where he will spend the night may not have hot water showers in its bath house.

That represents the outlines of a stupendous conquest. Perhaps we are still too close to it to appreciate it fully. It is only when we read of something like this substitution of abandoned flivvers for white skeletons that we realize just how great the change has been.

MARK TWAIN AND THE RIVER.

There came to light recently an old-time Mississippi river man, who had known Mark Twain in the days when the famous writer was a steamboat pilot; and this man remarked, to everyone's surprise, that Mark Twain had not been a very good pilot.

Mark Twain's own description of the difficulties of the pilot's job in the old days leaves one with the feeling that in order to be a good pilot a man must have been extraordinarily gifted, and probably Mark Twain himself would have admitted that his own attainments left a good deal to be desired. But the thing that strikes us now is that it is lucky for the country that the man did have his faults.

For if Mark Twain had been one of the river's best pilots, he might not ever have left the river. He said, once, that he was happier on the river than anywhere else; if his skill had been greater, isn't it likely that he would have remained a pilot to the end of his days? And if he had done so, American literature would be very much the poorer.

"FOEMAN AND FRIEND."

There is something very appealing in that story about the Confederate veterans at the George Confederate Home, in Atlanta, who unveiled a bronze plaque the other day to Alexander H. Wray of Patchogue, N. Y., a veteran of the Union army in the Civil War.

Ever since 1907, Wray has given his entire federal pension to the Confederate Home—a total of more than $5000; and the plaque expressed gratitude to "a brave foe who was in heart a friend."

One feels that it would be nice to know this man Wray. How much trouble, misunderstanding and suffering could not have been avoided if all of his comrades in arms had felt toward their former foe as he felt!

Ruth St. Denis says that dancing will soon dominate the sports world. She is a little late in her prediction. Baseball pitchers have for sometime put a "hop" on the ball and wrestlers have always been known to fling.

If a modern American city had feelings, the first thing it might complain about is its joints.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURE BY KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tynmites trip around the town soon ended. As the sun went down, they set sail in their big canoe. The Travel Man said, "We will sleep right in the boat tonight. I know that all will be alright. With blankets all around us we'll be comfy as can be."

"I've brought some fruit that we can munch. I think it was a happy lunch. Don't eat it now, though. Wait until you're hungry. That is best. I'm glad the moon is shining bright. 'Twill make a very wondrous night. It seems that every place we go, with moonlight nights we're best."

Then Clowdy started in to croon a very pretty little tune. The others all were quiet and appreciative. Then the Travel Man said, "That was voice. Your voice is just as good as mine." This made the Tynmites laugh a bit. Then Clowdy sang again. The natives who were in the craft, one in the bow, the other aft, kept working with their paddles and the boat moved very fast. For hours the Tynmites stayed awake. Then they agreed that they should take a turn at restful sleeping and they soon were sleeping.

Next morning they pulled up to shore. A brand new town was reached once more. The Travel Man said, "This is Tananarive! Soon we will find more natives who can weave. And they'll have things you won't believe." And, sure enough, they found them. What a wondrous sight to see.

Small tables and small chairs were there, asiting in the open air. It was the weavers' market place. The things were all for sale. Said Clowdy, "Gee, but they look strong. I wish we could take some along, but they would just be trouble and my thoughts to no avail."

(The Tynmites see some oxen in the next story.)

Farmer Out $350

And Favorite Cow

Bridgeton, N. J., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Gloom as thick as pea soup hung over the farm of Bill Mattox today for Bossy, a favorite cow, lay dead and farmer Bill was out $350 in cash, plus Bossy's value on the hoof.

This is the story as gleaned from Bill himself.

He drew $420 from bank to purchase supplies, and, for a day or two, carried the money in a canvass bag in a hip pocket. Then, after feeding his stock, the bag was missing. His search was without success until he focused his gaze on Bossy, placidly chewing her cud. He saw a part of what had been a $20 bill protruding from Bossy's mouth and sent a hurry call for a veterinarian.

In a little while Bossy's spirit was on its way to the happy hunting grounds for cows and the veterinarian had operated. In one of Bossy's stomachs they found all that remain-

Former Dry Paper Changes Position

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 28.—(UP)—The Buffalo Evening News, which heretofore has supported the 18th amendment, and the dry cause, urged prompt revision of the amendment in an editorial today.

The editorial, headed "Revision the Only Cure," explained that 11 years ago the Evening News supported the 18th amendment because of evidence of moral and political corruption resulting from the legalized liquor traffic. The amendment, the News said, promised for a short time to fulfill the hopes of reform.

"But the improvement soon ceased, and things began to go from bad to worse," the editorial continued. "The ugly truth cannot be concealed that conditions in some respects now are worse than they were before prohibition. The law has come to be held in contempt by many who in the first instance gave it support of faith."

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Governor Wilbur L. Cross sent to the General Assembly today two bills, calling for application to Congress for the assembling of a constitutional convention to consider repeal of the 18th amendment and memorializing Congress on Connecticut's position to federal prohibition.

EARLY PLOWING

Diverson, Ill., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Add signs of spring: H. T. McMurray was breaking ground for his 1931 corn crop today on his farm two miles east of here. McMurray said there is more moisture in the ground than there was last summer, despite the fact that there has been practically no rain. Farm Bureau officials explained that while plowing this early in the year is unusual, the mild winter made it possible. In other years, they said, cold weather made it impossible to plow the ground.

VAILE AND O'MALLEY

LITTLE EMBASSY LIQUOR TASTED BY OUTSIDERS

Charges Made In Senate Not Borne Out By The Real Facts

BY CECIL OWEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Charges made on the Senate floor picturing Washingtonians as slaking their thirst with embassy liquor are held unfounded in fact by competent witnesses.

"The amount of embassy liquor which reaches the public in Washington is not a drop in the bucket compared to the flow of synthetic bootleg gin and whiskey here," the United Press was informed in a survey of the Capital's liquor situation.

Precautions are taken by all embassies and legations to guard their liquor supply, and nearly all the missions destroy the bottles and burn the cases when they are emptied. This is to prevent bootleggers from refilling the bottles and selling their stuff as "embassy liquor."

Transportation of the embassy's supply of liquor provides a problem. The Treasury has ruled that all embassy liquor shipments must arrive at the nearest port, which is Baltimore. The law prohibits transporting such liquors in a common carrier. This makes it necessary for an embassy attaché to accompany a truck conveying the liquors here from Baltimore.

There is no limit on the amount any embassy may import, but each requisition must be signed by the chief of the mission and approved by the Secretary of State and Treasury Department. This acts as a check on abuse of the diplomatic privilege by younger members of the corps.

Most embassies store their liquor in the home of the Ambassador, although some keep it in storage warehouses. Usually some member of the embassy staff is placed in charge of the cache.

At all embassy functions, a bowl of "prohibition punch" is supplied for those Americans who may wish to obey their country's laws even on foreign soil. Embassies report, however, that seldom is it necessary to replenish this bowl.

Prohibition was said by one embassy attaché to have had the effect of causing diplomats to change from a wine to a hard liquor beverage diet. This is because all their American visitors prefer spirits to the milder wines and the diplomats drink what is ordered by their guests.

A mile of bookshelves a year is needed to care for new books at the British museum in London.

Lightning Weak Compared With Man-Made Power

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
New York, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The most powerful stroke of wild lightning ever measured by man would run New York City's power lines only half a second.

This stroke, 5,000,000 volts, was caught on an Arkansas electric line (between Camden, Ark. and South Magnolia) and its measurements in watts and amperes was reported today to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. It was trapped with photographic apparatus by Julius J. Torok of the Westinghouse Company and Ralph E. Pittman of the Arkansas Power & Light Company.

The figures bear out a statement by the electrical genius, the late Charles P. Steinmetz, that lightning is weak compared with the silent flow of power from man-made dynamos.

The 5,000,000-volt bolt equalled about 15,000,000 watts. Eighty times greater than this was the power which flowed over the lines of the New York Edison Company at 5 P. M. December 23, the hour of the highest peak load of 1930. The New York current then measured 1,247,800,000 watts.

The Arkansas lightning picture was taken with oscillographs, photographic devices which operated in milliseconds of seconds. The big shot sent between 100,000 and 160,000 amperes over four miles of power line. Its whole force was expended in about one sixteenth of a second.

Delicate instruments showed that lightning striking very close to the lines had scarcely any effect, only direct hits being harmful.

Fall's Appeal To Be Argued Monday

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The appeal of Albert F. Fall, former Secretary of Interior, from his conviction in connection with the naval oil reserve lease scandals, is to be heard next Monday by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Fall was sentenced to one year in jail and to pay a $100,000 fine for accepting a bribe from Edward Doheny.

Frank J. Hogan, Washington attorney who defended Fall, is to argue the appeal. The government will be represented by Atlee Pomerene, special counsel.

BEAUTIFICATION OF CAPITAL HAS SHOWN PROGRESS

Dream Of French Engineer In 1790 Being Fulfilled

Washington, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The nation's Capital has taken a greater step in its beautification during the past ten years than in any like period in its history.

Since 1790, when George Washington and Pierre Charles L'Enfant, French engineer, stood on a hill and visioned the city that was to be, the dream of L'Enfant has gradually been taking shape but since 1920 more progress has been noted than ever before.

Washington and L'Enfant dreamed of the Capital of the nation rising on the eminence where they were standing and so it was decreed, but the Frenchman quarreled with those who did not grasp his conception and quit after laying out a broad plan.

His hope for the most beautiful Capital in the world has persisted since, however, and his idea grew into the semblance of reality in 1920 when a $200,000,000 building program for Washington was agreed upon.

The close of 1930 found that program under way. Some of the shabby, dreary eyed buildings have already gone, torn down to make way for the $17,500,000 Commerce Building near Fifteenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. It is virtually complete. The $10,000,000 Bureau of Internal Revenue not far away is finished.

These two are a part of the group which will stand in "The Triangle," the 70 acres between Pennsylvania Avenue, B and Fifteenth streets. Back of them is "The Mall" which L'Enfant saw as a wide strip of park running from the Capitol to the Potomac river on the west with the tree-lined hills of Virginia in the background. The government in 1930 sees it that way.

It will have a few buildings in it. One of them is the new Department of Agriculture, completed since 1920. Washington's growth from 437,571 in 1920 to 485,716 in 1930 might have been disappointing to some but the explanation generally accepted is that there has been a mild exodus to nearby Maryland and Virginia.

The Board of Trade also points out that, save for the war period, the city has grown steadily without sensational spurts. It has no factories of consequence and wants none. The town expands as the government expands and the latter spends a few million dollars more each month.

The town is looking forward to the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birthday in 1932.

For all its celebrities and public magnificence, Washington has a noticeable touch of country village atmosphere. The bulk of its population is farm sons and daughters. Pedestrians still stroll along the principal streets, the pace only slightly faster than that around a county seat court house.

THAT you should make boosting a habit, with the home city as the worthy object.

You should want it to be solid and progressive and that it be known everywhere as a live, up-to-date growing city.

Now is the time for every citizen to get busy and stay busy helping themselves by helping their city.

You should not be a quiet booster; be a live, active booster and let everyone know where you stand.

It does not pay to take too much for granted. Just because the outlook seems good is no sign that your city will get its full share of everything.

Nothing much ever comes to the city that is always waiting for something good to show up.

It takes organized effort on the part of all citizens to do things worth while. It takes the same kind of effort to get things worth while.

A CITY SHOULD AIM TO BE SUCCESSFUL IN EVERYTHING IT UNDERTAKES.

Influenza Spreads Rapidly In Week

Washington, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A rapid spread of influenza was reported by the Public Health Service today, with a total of 7,275 cases now as compared with 3,867 a week ago.

The Public Health Service estimates the disease is about five times as prevalent as shown in the report, since several states do not report influenza reporting and others have only the statistics furnished by physicians. Illinois had 263 cases as compared with 41 a week ago.

SEVEN DIED IN FIRE.

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Clyde Smith and six small children were burned to death when a farmhouse at Powys was destroyed today. The mother and a two-year-old child were saved but were badly burned.

TOURIST TRADE SHOWS BOOM IN NEW ORLEANS

Business Slump Fails to Cut Down Winter Visitors

By BARRY J. HOLLOWAY
United Press Staff Correspondent

New Orleans.—(UP)—America may be in a period of financial depression—but it has not injured the tourist business here this winter, according to a survey of hotels.

And even night clubs and gambling casinos have regained normal business since the first of the year.

Franklin Moore, of the Roosevelt, and Pat O'Shaughnessy, of the St. Charles, report business unusually good with well filled guest books almost every night.

The Jung Marbec, Bienville, Monteleone and other of the hotels catering to tourists also report good business.

Racing bets were not so good at Jefferson Park, but Fairgrounds has been crowded almost every day of the winter season. The betting has been fairly heavy.

Many of the hotel and cafe operators claim this season is better than 1929.

The crowds of tourists from the north are expected, however, to invade New Orleans in earnest during February for the Mardi Gras season. Mardi Gras starts Feb. 17 this year, but tourists will remain until the middle of March, when the racing closes.

Despite efforts of prohibition and customs agents to cut off the supply of liquor into New Orleans, almost any brand of intoxicant one could desire was said to be obtainable without too much effort.

Because of competition, prices of liquor were cheaper here this season, than for many past, it was said. Allegedly imported Scotch was said to be selling for $4 a fifth.

MANAGEMENT OF FOOTBALL MAIN TROUBLE IN IT

That's Opinion Of Head Of Atlanta, Georgia, Institution

By DILLON GRAHAM
Atlanta, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The trouble with football is a vicious system of management rather than the granting of scholarships in the opinion of Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University.

"The fault lies in the vicious system of allowing alumni, students and outside business men to operate and control the athletic programs. Consequently lack of interest in and authority over athletics by the college faculties is at the bottom of all so-called evils of the game," Dr. Jacobs believes.

"These schools would not consider turning over the operation of their chemistry department to students and alumni, but, evidently, think nothing of placing one of the most important and most popular departments in their hands.

"The department of physical culture, including intercollegiate and intra-mural sports, should come under the faculties the same as any other class or subject, with the coach having direct supervision.

Dr. Jacobs favors the awarding of self-help scholarships to students, athletes or non-athletes, who need aid to finance their way through school.

"I don't hesitate to offer a scholarship to a good violinist to study here and play in our orchestra, so why the objection to making the same proposition to the athlete," he says.

"Any other attitude in the matter is hypocritical. If this is subsidization, you can say Oglethorpe University is in favor of it.

"A college athlete receiving help should not be regarded as a professional. He is as clean an amateur as any. He receives less for his participation than the so-called amateur in golf, tennis and other sports not connected with collegiate sports."

Dr. Jacobs says there is no such thing as over-emphasis in football.

YALE HEARD FROM

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—That gate receipts, large or small, are quite all right for college football so long as they are properly administered, is an opinion expressed by President Rowland Angell of Yale.

Rowland Angell of Yale. Yale does not expect to ask her alumni to endow athletics, President Angell told the representatives attending the annual meeting of the Yale Alumni Association last night.

"Intercollegiate games," he said, "should be carried on within the bounds of such reasonable expenditures as can be provided by the participant, or by special gifts, or by sales of tickets to witness the contests.

Despite abuses which have grown up at some institutions, as the result of the huge gate receipts for football, these abuses are being rapidly corrected, and the money is now generally used for proper purposes, such as the development of intramural sports."

Bitter Hockey Feud On Cards This Eve

New York, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Hockey's bitterest feud will be resumed on the ice in Madison Square Garden tonight when the New York Rangers entertain the burly Boston Bruins.

The boys have been going at it for a goodly number of years now, and things get worse instead of better. This is not hard to explain when it is remembered that the Rangers, no matter how they handle the rest of the league, are totally incapable of whipping the Boston outfit.

During the last three years the clubs have played 16 times and the Rangers' standing is three ties and 13 defeats.

The game tonight is a very important one, especially for the Rangers. For the Rangers are in fourth place and rapidly fading out of the play-off picture. A few more defeats, and the New Yorkers will have nothing more substantial than a fighting chance to overtake the third-place Detroit Falcons.

Boston and Chicago are all but certain to take the number one and number two berths.

In the international group of the league Montreal's two entries, the Canadians and the Maroons, and the Toronto Maple Leafs are favored to end the season in the play-off.

Charity Begins At Home Says Mr. Getz

New York, Jan. 29.—(UP)—If the Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight championship bout is held in Chicago in June a charity of that city and not the New York Fund will share in the gate receipts.

This was made clear yesterday by George F. Getz, wealthy member of the Illinois State Athletic Commission in an interview at Madison Square Garden. During the interview, which was attended by numerous sports writers, Joe Jacobs, Max Schmeling and others, Getz said that Chicago wanted the bout and he wanted it for Chicago, but that he would oppose it if any charitable organization other than a Chicago one shared in the gate receipts.

"Charity begins at home," the Chicago Commissioner said, "and we have our own needy folks to take care of."

The charity angle, according to Getz, is the only obstacle in the path of the bout going to Chicago. He pointed out that the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois, promoters of the fight, is a legal organization in good standing.

Getz expressed the opinion that the fight, with a top price of something like $25 would draw a $1,250,000 gate.

YOUNGSTERS TO MEET FOR TITLE OF CUE THIS EVE

Hall And Thurnblad, Both Of Chicago, In The Finals

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Allen Hall and Arthur Thurnblad, mere youngsters as masters come in the most intricate field of billiards, cross cues tonight for the three-cushion championship of the world and the pot of gold that goes with the crown.

The two 30-year-old Chicagoans, who brushed aside the defending champion and two former titleholders in their sweep to the finals of the 1931 tournament, will match artistry and nerves over a 50 inning route.

A salary of $6000 a year, $1200 in cash, a percentage of the gate receipts and the tidy sum available to a champion for exhibitions, will bring the winner approximately $30,000.

Hall, conqueror of the three-time champion and his former teacher, Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., was a big favorite to win in the deciding match but a hard, nerve wracking duel was certain. Both play a great defensive game and both have that extra ounce of nerve that makes champions. Both have won five and lost one during the ten-day tournament.

The loser of the championship match will meet Layton in a play-off for second place tomorrow night. Layton, who finished his regulation tournament play last night by crushing Otto Reisel of Philadelphia, 50 to 32, in 32 innings, won five games and lost two. Runner-up positions is worth an annual salary of $3000 and part of the gate receipts.

Reisel was fourth in the final standing with four wins and three losses. Tiff Denton, the Kansas City veteran, and Frank Scoville of Buffalo tied for fifth. Denton cash prize of $1000 tonight. Charles Jordan of Los Angeles, western champion, and Jess Jacobs of St. Louis, southern titleholder, shared the cellar.

Who will it be? Some Dixon boy or girl is going to receive $100 for the best poem on Dixon. Every boy and girl should make an effort to be the lucky one.

Dr. Shapley of Harvard estimates that the galaxy of stars we can see through a telescope extends over 1,764,000,000,000 miles.

INDOOR TRACK MEET SEASON IS OPENED IN N. Y.

Feature Was the Defeat Of Swiss Runner By Ray Conger

Newark, N. J., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The band played The Star Spangled Banner and then Ray Conger stepped out and won the first international race of the indoor track season, defeating Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland.

The band played the Swiss National Anthem too at the Newark A. C. track games last night but it takes more than a song to win a footrace from the boyish looking star of the Illinois Athletic Club, America's premier middle distance runner.

Dr. Martin, making his first appearance of the winter and only off the boat a little more than a week, made a gritty effort to stay with Conger and beat him to the tape in the 1,000-yard struggle as he did three out of four times, they met last winter, but he didn't have the stamina of his trail-apparing rival.

Conger, breaking his custom, jumped into the lead right at the start past Frank Nordell, husky Philadelphia boy who is a freshman at New York University, and Martin, who were in the number one and two lanes. Martin was close at his heels and they held that position until the fifth lap, when Nordell and James Kennedy of the Newark A. C., the other starter, behind them.

Ran His Own Race
Then Nordell decided the pace was a little slow and went around Conger, carrying Martin along with him. Apparently content to run his own race, Conger stayed back in third place, two or three yards behind the little Swiss's flying heels.

When the gun sounded for the final lap, however, Conger called on his finishing kick and went around Nordell as if they were tied to a post. Nordell and Martin fought on grimly, but the Illinois flier finished five yards in front of Nordell had a similar Margin over Martin.

The international race was the feature of the opening games of the "major league" track season, which saw Gus Moore, Negro star of the Brooklyn Harriers, administer a crushing 50 or 60 yard beating to Leo Lermond of the Boston A. A. one America's leading distance runner, in a two mile handicap affair, and Ira Singer, New York University Freshman, romp away with the sprint races.

Conger has yet to meet defeat in a sprint series this year, among his victims at the Newark games being Thet Bowman, national 60-yard champion, and co-holder of the world's record at that distance.

All the times were slow, Conger's 2:17.9-10 being one of the best marks of the evening considering the unbanked turns, and still almost six seconds behind Harold Cuthill's world record.

Putting Game On The Spot—

We hold aloft a fragment of "Game Conservation," raw and bleeding, loathsome and repulsive, criminal in its waste, cowardly in the advantage taken of wild fowl.

A certain person owns a number of lakes near Stuttgart, Arkansas. Two of these lakes are kept as inviolate sanctuaries for wild fowl. The others are heavily baited with grain. Here the baited ducks are murdered. They flock to the food by the hundreds of thousands. The air is solid with them, layer on layer, when they fly.

The owner disposes his pot shooters—for they couldn't be sportsmen—in advantageous position and then drives the ducks over them. Thirty men killed 450 mallards in eight minutes! That's how thick the ducks were; that's how cowardly the men were. Sportsmen who saw the slaughter turned away in disgust.

And this is done in the name of "Game Conservation!" The owner does keep two lakes inviolate. What a gesture! And because of this he argues that he is a game conservationist! A benefactor of the water fowl!

He charges each man $10 for the privilege of murdering fifteen ducks. It's a racket. The bewildered ducks are put on the spot for 66 cents each. And it's all legal in Arkansas. In fact, it is legal in most states. The American Game Association, from which this information comes, believes in the wise utilization of wild life taken by methods compatible with the best principles of sportsmanship and fair play, but it condemns murder of anything.

Commercial duck shooting should be regulated in such ways as to bring it to the highest ideals of sportsmanship. Legislatures will convene in forty-one states this year. Such a situation as this is worthy of their attention.

Battery Shop Five Upset Dope Bucket
The last game of the regular weekly series in the schedule of the Industrial Basketball League, played last evening on the Moose hall floor, was a complete upset in the dope. The Dixon Battery Shop five walked away from the hard fighting L. N. U. team by a score of 22 to 2. Jones and Whitecombe starting for the victors. The Utilities five accounted for but one field goal which was credited to Hilliker in the second half.

The Reynolds Wire Company team went down for their second successive defeat at the hands of the Merchants team in the second game of the evening. The Merchants ran up a count of 22 points against 13 accounted for by the wire warriors.

The American Cab & Body five showed increased strength in the first game of the evening by defeating the Dixon State Hospital team by a score of 20 to 12.

"Parrot-Treated" Girl Improving

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A steady improvement in the condition of Lillian Fisher, 15-year-old Joliet girl who recently was given an injection of parrot's blood through a misunderstanding, was reported by her physician today. He said there probably would be no further need for another transfusion.

The misunderstanding arose when physicians thought that a Chicago doctor had recommended parrot's blood, whereas the Chicago physician reported that he had said "parents' blood" in a telephone conversation.

The girl is suffering from an attack of infantile paralysis.

JESSIE, THE FLOWER O' DUNBLANE

THE sun has gone down o'er the lofty Benlomond
And left the red clouds to preside o'er the scene.
While lanelly I stray, in the calm summer gloamin',
To must on sweet Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane.

How sweet is the brier, w' its soft fauldin' blossom.
And sweet is the birk, w' its mantle o' green;
Yet sweeter and fairer, and dear to this bosom.

Is lovely young Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane.
Sing on, thou sweet mavis, thy hymn to the evening!
Thou'rt dear to the echoes of Calderwood glen;
Sae dear to this bosom, sae artless and winning,
Is charming young Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane.

Boston Still Knows Her Culture; Hoax Easily Discerned

Boston, Jan. 28.—(UP)—This center of American culture has refused to be converted to the disubstantiationist school of art, which apparently represents the ultra-ultra in that which is ultra!

Into normally conservative Copley Square galleries of Robert C. Vose a few days ago were moved seven weird and extraordinary paintings bearing such modernistic titles as "Gination," "Capitulation," "Illumination" and "Exaltation."

It was explained they were from the brush of Pavel Jerdanowitch, founder of the disubstantiationist school of painting, whose art had won the unstinted plaudits of New York and Chicago critics.

Bostonians studied the strange anatomies of lop-sided men and women who had come to life in riotous color.

They found not the least conspicuous of the canvases exhibited was one of Pavel Jerdanowitch himself, depicting him as a wild-eyed gentleman with hair disheveled, clutching at something which critics took to be "disubstantiationism."

But if Jerdanowitch's picture of himself were weird, others were more so.

"Adoration," for example, showed a woman, brilliantly garbed in red, green and yellow, kneeling before a fish-tipped totem pole which commanded an excellent view of the Alaska mountains. Attention was called to its "dynamic symmetry," a red moccasin, a red cap and the totem head being in line.

A descriptive note affixed to the painting entitled "Exaltation" read: "The savage woman is holding a banana in her hand in violation of the island custom. The last missionary has been eaten; his skull dries on the pole in the background; his ashes are seen at the oven's mouth. The woman is not nibbling the fruit she eats with gusto, and her eyes shine with barbaric exaltation. As convention died, the hut, symbol of civilization, totters."

All this, supposedly translated from the original Russian, failed to convince Boston critics. One by one they termed the entire exhibit a hoax. Vose finally explained.

He said Pavel Jerdanowitch was no Russian but rather a California parson whose real name was the Rev. Paul Smith of Hollywood. It seems that Smith's wife, an artist, had several paintings rejected, and her loyal husband promptly set out to prove the gullibility of American art critics.

First, according to Vose, Smith concocted a weird portrait of himself. Then he daubed several canvases haphazardly with multi-colored paints, affixed a modernistic title to each of his works, and sent his "masterpieces" on an exhibition tour.

Vose indicated that until the current expose the "Jerdanowitch" paintings had received the almost unanimous praise of critics. As for his own part in the Hoax, Vose said, he exhibited the fake pictures "just for fun."

Educate Your Nose Against the Cold!

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—If you catch cold, don't blame the weather. It's that peculiar feature on your face—your nose—that causes all the trouble.

The state health department says that an educated nose is the best insurance against colds. The nose, originally designed to warmup and moisten cold air, has lost its heating and humidifying ability because of man's habit of living in superheated rooms.

"Educate the nose, by going into cold air daily for a significant period of time," the health department says.

Mrs. Hoover's Picture Given to Girl Scouts

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The portrait of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, serene and gracious in the gray-green uniform of the Girl Scouts of America, painted by Glib Ilyn, Russian artist, has been completed and will be presented to the National Headquarters of the Girl Scouts in New York. It is the gift of the California Girl Scouts. Mrs. Hoover gave six sittings at the White House of an hour each.

1-4 cup chopped citron
1-2 cup chopped almonds
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda.
Cream the butter and sugar. Add the eggs and fruit juices and beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients and pour into 2 loaf cake pans which have been lined with waxed papers. Bake 1 1/2 hours in very slow oven.

Paris Style Shows Send News of Much Interest to States

BY MARY KNIGHT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Paris, Jan. 29.—(UP)—Pajamas and picture hats were on parade at the opening of Paris style shows.

The enormous picture hats with small, button-like gowns, were revived by Agnes Drecol Beer. The brims of the hats were so large that they often fell below the shoulders at the back. Most of the models were pink or black straw, trimmed with ribbons and flowers on the inner-brim and behind the ears.

The same designer showed novel coats overlapping in front with a pocket in the center of the front—a hand-pocket to keep the coat closed. In addition there were "sawed-off" coat sleeves to show fancy, resigned satin tunic sleeves of a marked Russian influence.

The back-less pyjama models were of fine lace, with lace trains on each trouser leg. In addition a pale blue ostrich feather about 12 inches long uncurred along the edge of each trouser leg. They were seen at Redfern's second showing.

The lace evening gowns shown were trimmed with bands of sable, while daytime suits included novel models with coats which may be reversed.

Redfern showed skirt-lengths barely at the mid-calf in all but evening dresses. The evening dresses were of ankle length and very definitely off the floor.

Varied Color Schemes
The color schemes were varied. There was much black with touches of green, pale blue, pink and yellow in the collection. Almost all jewelry was omitted.

The order for early days of 1931 at Martini et Armand was demureness, achieved with a new use of bows. The bows are of soft silky satin and crepe de chine, or perky piquant ones of taffeta and ribbon. One new afternoon model of marine-blue taffeta was printed with tiny yellow flowers. It has two bows—an enormous one at the normal waist line. It flares out over the hips and is so large that the lower corners turn in and point downward, forming what look like ends but are not. The tiny little marine-blue buttons are placed along the back up to the neck, where they touch another bow. The second bow is a small one, in plain marine-blue material. It has real ends and there is a hint of a "V" shape at the back of the collar.

The evening dress bow made its appearance about two inches above the normal waistline in Japanese fashion. It was of pale blue satin and even larger than the afternoon bow. There was also a peplum on the same evening gown that takes care of the front design and slopes toward the knot of the bow in the back.

Flowing lacy pantaloons for wear under evening gowns were revived by Chantal as the surprise in her summer collection of fashions.

The pantaloons are like pajama pantaloons and models of dark blue lace and chiffon were shown for wear under dark dresses, while other flesh colored models were worn under light dresses.

Both Chantal and Redfern avoided black, showing plenty of red with blue and brown. They also showed a new combination of green and blue.

Sleeves will be tight and extend to a point between the elbow and shoulder. Knit wool scarves were used with the "bolero" effect.

Redfern showed evening gowns with hems just off the floor. The day dresses shown by Chantal were shorter, with the hems to the middle of the calf.

Combinations of several colors in one dress were forecast for spring and summer. The new combinations broke away from the winter's tradition of one-color schemes or black and white variation.

Originally the many-colored frocks will require a careful selection of gloves, purse, parasol, hat and shoes. Accessories will be plainer to bring out the necessary contrast.

Parisian fashion czars say women must begin to cultivate a new color sense and avoid the one-color effects of the last few seasons.

Resume Of Club Work by Mrs. Prince

From Mrs. E. H. Prince, president of the Dixon Woman's club, we find that some very interesting and outstanding departmental work is being done. The Child Welfare and Public Health department, of which Mrs. F. L. Thomas is chairman, is providing milk for a number of undernourished children. Results of the movement procured for mthe teachers of these children, show that because of this increased diet the children are decidedly improved, mentally and physically.

Mrs. O. F. Goeke, and the members of the American Home and Garden committee, are sponsoring with the Park Board, a competitive garden show, to promote civic beauty. Cash prizes will be awarded.

At present they are selling tickets to the annual Home and Garden Show at the Hotel Sherman, March 9 to 14. Buying through this department and committee saves money for the individual and credits the local club with cooperating with State Federation projects.

Mrs. R. S. Kilne and her Literature committee have donated books to two institutions. About twenty-five books of fiction were collected for the Dixon Public Hospital and Bartlett's "Book of Quotations" was given to the high school in observance of Book Week.

This department is now stimulating interest in a state one-act play and Poetry contest to which all club members are eligible. Any desiring rules for this may communicate with Mrs. Kilne or District Chairman of Literature, Mrs. John N. Weiss.

Veterans Teach Tricks Of Polo To Capital Women

By SUE McNAMARA
Washington—(AP)—After a good snowing in its first games with Cleveland, the Polo team formed by Washington society girls is preparing to face girl teams in New York and Palm Beach.

A game with Miami also is in prospect.

Unmindful of bruises, they go swinging over the turf at the Riding and Hunt club.

The former Cornelia Vanderbilt, now Mrs. John Francis Amherst Cecil, has joined the wool-shirted, helmeted ranks of the Washington women.

Mrs. Cecil, Miss Elizabeth Martin and Miss Eliza Cox, all ex-

A fitting complement to a black afternoon ensemble is shown in a black afternoon bag with a modern clasp of ivory. A white chiffon handkerchief with black design is another novel idea. 5. Evening shorts of georgette and lace show delicate hand-tucking. 6. Evening handkerchiefs may match the frock with the wearer's name printed down the center. 7. perienced players, are teaching new members.

Mrs. Frank M. Andrews, another player, is the daughter of the late Gen. Henry T. Allen who was in command of the American Army of occupation in Germany. She also played on men's polo teams in Coblenz while her husband was stationed there after the war.

Mrs. Vernon Olmsted, also the wife of an army officer, has played polo at Fort Leavenworth where some of the best riders in the army received their training.

The capital girl mallet swingers beat the women's team of Cleveland in two games out of three. Elated by their success they even faced a Cleveland men's team—but were beaten. However one game resulted in a tie—12-12.

The women admit that polo has its dangerous moments, but they scorn such precautionary measures as first aid kits on the side lines when they go on the field.

Rock River Country Is Again Eulogized

Urbana-Champaign, Ill., Jan. 29.—The beauties of "The Rock River Country of Northern Illinois" generally known in northern Illinois as the "Hudson of the West," are described in a newly published educational bulletin of the State Geological Survey located on the campus of the University of Illinois. Miss Deette Rolfe is author of the bulletin.

The bulletin reveals the interesting geological history of the region and explains how the processes of nature have been operating through the ages to produce the scenic valley of the present day. The readers are taken on a veritable excursion, beginning at the Wisconsin line and ending at Dixon.

The features of special interest along the way are pictured and described in such a way that one learns not only their locations, but how, why and when they were formed—how it happens that we are able to study and enjoy today these evidences of the handiwork of nature at her best—examples of earth sculpture which date back many thousands, and in some cases, millions, of years.

To anyone motoring along the river on Highway 2, the ruggedness of the land surface on either side of the valley is striking. In view of this fact, it is hard to believe that the whole region was several times the monotonously flat floor of ancient seas—northward extensions of the present Gulf of Mexico, for the most part, which submerged the land for long periods of time—long enough, in fact, to allow great thicknesses of sand, mud and other sediments to accumulate at the ocean bottoms, later to be compacted into the sandstones, limestones and shales which form the bedrock strata of the whole of northern Illinois today.

The streams which came into being after the disappearance of the ice sheets which covered this area during the Great Ice Age, had to adapt themselves to the new landscape, since the old surface was covered up below. This was the case with the Rock River. Its old rock gorge was almost entirely filled, and could not be reoccupied. The river then set to work to carve out a new valley in the higher land surface.

North of Rockford, this new valley follows the line of the old channel, the present stream flowing on the surface of the materials which nearly filled the old valley.

Southward from Rockford, however, the location of the present valley is new; it cuts across former stream divides, carving a course of great beauty—now past high, almost perpendicular cliffs, and then low, rounded hills; here through wide, flat, open valleys, and there through narrow gorges, from which branch deep, cool ravines; truly, a river of great variety, with a fascinating geologic history all its own.

The publication goes into much greater detail on the subjects, and includes discussions of the flora of the district as well as the high-spots of human history in the valley.

The bulletin has been distributed free of charge for use in the public school throughout the State. Additional copies are also available for personal distribution at nominal rates and may be secured by addressing the Chief, State Geological Survey, Urbana, Ill.

herbs and dried flowers right now and blend your own fragrant baths if you want.

Mix any fragrant dried flower petals or leaves with an equal amount of borax and orris root powder. Make up a number of little dainty silk or muslin bags with draw string tops through which you can run ribbon to facilitate hanging the little bags on the hot water faucet. Put about three tablespoonsful of the mixture in each bag. When you turn on the hot water not only your tub, but the whole atmosphere of the bathroom will be delicately fragrant.

Pearl barley is used with rosemary, borax and powdered lupuline for another fragrant bath. You boil this together with three times the amount of barley that you use of the other ingredients and add the strained mixture to your bath.

Just a lavender bath, using the dried lavender you can get anywhere, is a lovely thing. Use equal parts of lavender and borax and orris root powder, put it all in a small bag and run your hot water through it.

Much simpler, of course, than concocting your own fragrant beauty baths, is the use of commercial powders, salts or tablets. Try different brands until you get one you like. Tomorrow—Pine beauty baths.

JOHN PAUL JONES DIDN'T SERVE ONLY UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG, HIS MANY PROBABLY THINK. AFTER THE REVOLUTION HE BECAME AN ADMIRAL IN THE RUSSIAN NAVY.

A political cartoon by George Soper. It depicts John Paul Jones in a Russian naval uniform, complete with a bicorne hat and a high-collared coat. He is shown in profile, shouting with his mouth wide open and holding a sword aloft in his right hand. He stands in the center of a ship's cabin, surrounded by several sailors. One sailor in the foreground is looking up at Jones with an open mouth, while others in the background are also looking on. The scene is filled with smoke or steam, suggesting a chaotic or dramatic moment. The cartoon is signed 'GEORGE SOPER' in the bottom right corner.

HERBAL GLY-CAS GIVES LADY NEW LEASE ON LIFE

In Now Entirely Well After Suffering Years With Rheumatism, Indigestion.

"I want to tell everyone about Gly-Cas for I know it is the most wonderful medicine on the market today," said Mrs. Will Burnham, 1336 West Seventh St., Hastings, Nebraska.

MRS. WILL BURNHAM

Nebraska. "I had suffered for years with rheumatism and intestinal indigestion, bloated dreadfully, was terribly nervous and in constant misery with rheumatism. I spent lots of money for all kinds of medicines and with medical authorities but nothing did me any good until Gly-Cas came to my rescue. This new herbal remedy took right a hold of my stubborn case and new I am entirely well and enjoy good health again. That terrible rheumatism has been taken completely out of my body, that awful bloating has left me also, my digestion is perfect and I feel fine. Gly-Cas has simply given me a new lease on life."

Hundreds of local people will tell you that Gly-Cas has no equal in reaching the most severe cases. Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon by Schildberg's Pharmacy, 301 First St., and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Daily Health Talk

GUARD AGAINST FLU

EDITOR'S NOTE: With influenza outbreaks already reported in many cities and threatening others, The Evening Telegraph herewith begins a series of three articles by Dr. Morris Fishbein on how to avoid this malady and its greatest contributory cause, the common cold. The articles were written by Dr. Fishbein especially for this newspaper and NEA Service.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor of The Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

The most favorable temperature for health for the average man varies apparently with the climate to which he has been accustomed. In the temperate zone, we seem to do exceedingly well with fairly moderate temperatures, such as occur in spring and fall, but must adjust ourselves to the extreme conditions that develop in the summer and in the winter.

Winter requires more adjustment than summer. Professor Huntington of Yale believes that the weather is responsible for from 75,000 to 100,000 deaths every year. The most severe months are apparently February, March and early April, the period in which pneumonia following colds is most prevalent. Furthermore, the winter months seem to deprive the human being of many of the healthful factors available in other seasons.

The normal human being has a temperature of 98.6 and his body seems to function best in a temperature of from 65 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit. It is difficult to maintain this temperature in rooms during the winter months. Overheating dries out the body and puts the mucous membranes in a condition in which it is difficult for them to resist the onslaught of infection.

Unfortunately, few homes are properly regulated so far as concerns moisture. The average humidity in most homes during the winter months is about 25 per cent. That is to say, at 70 degrees the air contains only about 25 per cent of the water it could contain. In order to have the maximum of health and comfort, the air should contain about twice this amount.

Keep Air Moist To get a relative humidity of 50 per cent, rooms heated to 70 degrees will require the daily evaporation of from five to 30 gallons of water. All sorts of methods have been devised for getting this amount of water into the air. The simplest method, of course, is the pan of water with a wick, which may be placed on the radiator. It is also possible to evaporate the water without the wick, but it does not evaporate so rapidly. Several humidifiers are manufactured which may be placed on the radiators and which contain cloth layers along the sides which serve the purpose of aiding the evaporation of the water.

In addition to having moisture outside the body, it is desirable to have sufficient moisture inside the body to respond to the dryness. If the human being will drink eight glasses of water each day, he will have a sufficient amount of water to take care of the functions of the kidney and to provide for evaporation from the skin.

It is particularly important for the infant and the child to be surrounded with proper temperature and humidity during the winter months.

For GINGER'S SAKE

LITTLE ANGELO, there, was a musician. He could play the piano so it would stir your heart-strings like the harps in heaven. Also he could play the violin, but alas, he had no violin. Also he would wait on the table, and was very handy about the grounds.

Pietro was a cook. He could cook dishes for the palates of the gods and Italians, than which there is no better taste. He required almost nothing in the way of ingredients, and he was so sanitary and so hygienic as to put the average Board of Health to shame.

Benito—it was Benito who did almost all the talking—Benito, in a great smile that engulfed his immense features like a tidal wave, announced that he was a singer.

"Do you suppose he really can sing?" whispered GINGER.

Benito heard her. The tide of smiles receded from his face.

With a large wave of his moist hand he swept his colleagues away from him, drew back a step or two to allow for the proper expansion of his perfect lungs, and suddenly, like a great torrent, he deluged them with the strains of O Sole Mio, rising into greater and gladder crescendo that brought Phil and his husband, and at a distance, Gooby, rushing to the door.

GINGER covered her ears with her hands. "Stop him!" she called to Bard but Bard was powerless.

"Stop him!" she cried to Iry Ford, who was doubled up on the running board, helpless with laughter.

She appealed to his fellow countrymen. But they were standing back rapidly, heads lifted heavenward, softly beating time with one warm hand upon the other.

"O sole mio," exulted the great voice, and died away at last, like the reverberations of summer thunder, into a pleased laugh of self-satisfaction. "Could he sing?"

Amazingly Phil and Mr. Tolliver approached the strange group.

"Ginger, my poor child," began Phil, but stopped at the three newcomers surged forward to kiss her hand.

"Oh, Phil," cried the harassed girl, half weeping. "I meant it for a surprise, and it hasn't turned out at all right."

"Surprises so often don't," said her father gravely.

"We only wanted one," explained Bard nervously. "A small pretty chap I knew in Chicago. He plays laughing, gesticulating, jovious Italian engulfed them. Bard planted himself between the onrush and the astonished GINGER.

"See here!" he demanded. "What does this mean? Where did you come from? Where is Nicolò?"

They shouted loud explanations in cheerful Italian, proffering a letter the very letter which had brought them hither, and which would explain all. But it was only Bard's own letter to Nicolò and explained nothing.

When he protested his unwillingness to accept it as a card of admission, it appeared they knew no English, but Italian only, that they had come by the letter, and ended with a triplicate of the telling Mediterranean shrug which says so much.

Bard was implacable. "You can't speak English? Then we don't want you. Back in the car with you—take them to the train. Iry—ship them right off to Chicago!" he ordered hotly. "We don't understand Italian."

Thus driven into a corner, it developed that they knew a little English, and if given time and patience could perhaps succeed in making themselves faintly understood. And in a few surprisingly well worded and grammatical sentences they explained that Nicolò could not come, that he had a job, a very good job, in a speakeasy which the union did not control.

Not being able to accept the invitation himself, he had generously passed it on to them, his particular chosen and bosom friends and boon companions.

"But why three of you?" ejaculated the badgered artist. "We only wanted one!"

No matter! He could have three for the price of one. Were not six hands better than two? They were boon companions, they could not be separated, and as proof they embraced one another.

They wished to see the country. They had never before heard of Iowa, they needed a change from Chicago. They would sleep three in one bed and work all for the price of one.

"There's plenty of room in the attic," whispered GINGER, eager to relieve Bard of the terrible responsibility thus thrust upon him.

At the sound of her small voice, with the usual Latin partiality of her sex, especially a pretty one, they surrounded her in a large, peering, laughing food.

They bowed, they beamed, they kissed her hand. They swore they would serve her for nothing, they were her slaves, they would work seems to function best in a temperature of from 65 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit. It is difficult to maintain this temperature in rooms during the winter months. Overheating dries out the body and puts the mucous membranes in a condition in which it is difficult for them to resist the onslaught of infection.

Unfortunately, few homes are properly regulated so far as concerns moisture. The average humidity in most homes during the winter months is about 25 per cent. That is to say, at 70 degrees the air contains only about 25 per cent of the water it could contain. In order to have the maximum of health and comfort, the air should contain about twice this amount.

Keep Air Moist To get a relative humidity of 50 per cent, rooms heated to 70 degrees will require the daily evaporation of from five to 30 gallons of water. All sorts of methods have been devised for getting this amount of water into the air. The simplest method, of course, is the pan of water with a wick, which may be placed on the radiator. It is also possible to evaporate the water without the wick, but it does not evaporate so rapidly. Several humidifiers are manufactured which may be placed on the radiators and which contain cloth layers along the sides which serve the purpose of aiding the evaporation of the water.

In addition to having moisture outside the body, it is desirable to have sufficient moisture inside the

Lower Interest On Small Loans Asked

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.-(UP)-Reduced interest rates on small loans are proposed in various bills that have been introduced in the Illinois State Legislature and will shortly be considered at committee hearings.

One of the bills provide that the present rate on loans under $300 be reduced from three and one-half per cent a month to two per cent. Another measure would put the maximum interest rate at one per cent a month.

The bill which would reduce the rate to two per cent was offered by Senator Victor Michel, Republican, Peoria. It also would provide that an assignment of salary shall not be valid unless signed by the borrower's employer signifying that he has assented to the assignment of salary of the employee. The other bill offered by Representative James T. Burns, Democrat, Kankakee, is for a straight out reduction of the interest rate to one per cent.

Boys and girls of all Dixon schools are eligible to try for the Prize Poem on Dixon. The fortunate one will receive $100. For particulars call the Dixon Telegraph.

Two New Members For Pardon Board

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.-(UP)-Albert B. George, colored, Chicago, and A. V. Essington, Rockford, today were appointed to the Board of Pardons and Paroles by Governor Louis I. Emmerson.

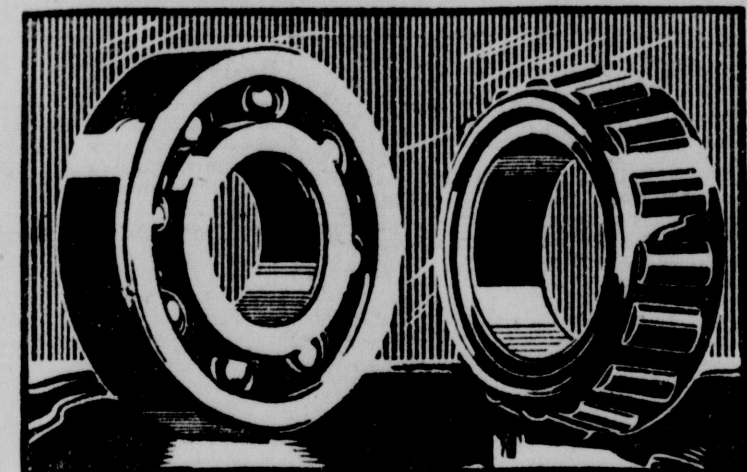

George, who has served for six years as Associate Judge in Municipal Court, Chicago, will take the place left vacant by the recent dismissal of William H. Harrison, colored, Chicago, charged with accepting a bribe.

Essington will take the seat left vacant by the recent death of Ward E. Thompson, also of Rockford.

DR. FRANK MOORE DEAD
Chicago, Jan. 28.-(UP)-Dr. Frank D. Moore, 60, prominent Chicago physician, died today after an acute heart attack. Moore was a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He was connected with the Frances T. Willard hospital, the Mother Cabrini Memorial hospital, and other institutions. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

FORD SMOOTHNESS

The new Ford has more than twenty ball and roller bearings

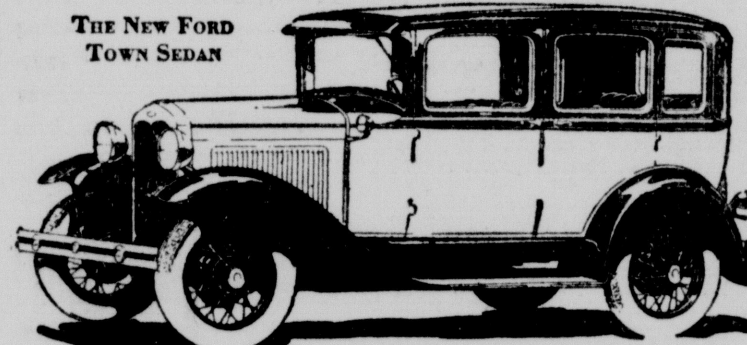

EVIDENCE of the high quality built into the new Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all - an unusually large number. Each bearing is adequate in size and carefully selected for the work it has to do.

At some points in the Ford chassis you will find ball bearings. At others, roller bearings are used regardless of their higher cost. The deciding factor is the performance of the car.

The extensive use of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford insures smoother operation, saves gasoline, increases speed and power, gives quicker pick-up, decreases noise, and gives greater reliability and longer life to vital moving parts.

Other outstanding features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, the extensive use of fine steel forgings, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.
